

A close-up photograph of golden wheat stalks, showing the intricate details of the grain heads and the long, thin awns. The wheat is bathed in warm, golden light, creating a rich, textured appearance. The background is a soft-focus field of similar wheat, extending the sense of a vast harvest.

Job 02:06 And the LORD said unto Satan, Behold, he is in thine hand;
but save his life.