

A close-up photograph of water splashing over a dark, textured surface. The water is captured in motion, creating numerous small droplets and bubbles. In the upper right corner, there are several green leaves, possibly from a plant, which are slightly out of focus. The overall lighting is dramatic, with highlights on the water droplets and deep shadows in the background.

Genesis 24:63 And Isaac went out to meditate in the field at the eventide: and he lifted up his eyes, and saw, and, behold, the camels were coming.