

A close-up photograph of a field of ranunculus flowers. The central focus is a large, fully bloomed white ranunculus with a green center. To its right is a large, multi-petaled ranunculus with white and purple variegated petals. In the background, there are several other ranunculus flowers in shades of pink, purple, and red. The foreground shows several green, unopened flower buds on their stems. The overall scene is a lush garden of these flowers.
