

A vibrant, artistic photograph of a mountain landscape. The scene is dominated by lush green moss and vegetation covering the rocky terrain. A waterfall cascades down a dark, mossy cliff face, creating a misty spray of water at the bottom. The lighting is soft and ethereal, highlighting the textures of the moss and the movement of the water. The overall mood is serene and natural.

Ezekiel 36:08 But ye, O mountains of Israel, ye shall shoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people of Israel; for they are at hand to come.