

Matthew 13:16 But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

A close-up photograph of a vibrant red rose with water droplets on its petals, set against a background of green leaves. The rose is the central focus, with its many layers of petals clearly visible. The water droplets are scattered across the petals, adding a fresh and dewy appearance. The background consists of out-of-focus green leaves, creating a soft, natural setting for the flower.